8. HOME SPECIALTIES STAINLESS STEEL CLEANER

I've had horrible luck with stainless steel cleaners that leave a streaky, greasy mess on the surface of my once shiny appliances. Most, if not all of them, contain an unpleasant chemical odor, and one brand even made my hands break out in some strange rash. Finally though, someone has come up with a safe and effective answer to cleaning stainless steel. The folks from Home Specialties have created a non-aerosol, toxin-free alternative with their 1-Step Stainless Steel Cleaner. It's 100 percent food contact surface safe, meaning the product is both innocuous and non-toxic in nature and appropriate for indirect exposure to surfaces that food may come in contact with such as utensils, pots, pans, cutting boards, etc. With this specialty cleaner, you get both peace of mind and a product that really works. Completely a one-step cleaner — just spray and wipe, with no drying time or buffing required. After using this wonder product, my appliances were super clean, shiny and looked spanking new. I also liked how it effectively deals with stubborn fingerprints. Plus, you can't help but notice its pleasant, fresh citrus scent.
